

Pressure cleaning is probably the most effective technique for cleaning up tricky surfaces, whether it's concrete, stone, brick or solid wood. High pressure cleaning utilises water pressures more than 3000psi for cleaning. The water coming from the nozzle at top pressure, flushes out filth, stains, and also keeps the driveway neat, tidy and sparkling. The benefits of high pressure cleaning houses are many.

Pressure cleaning is not only great for your own home, other outside surfaces such as driveways and decking will also benefit tremendously as a result of a good wash. Of course if you are planning on applying a decorative concrete finish or sealer to your concrete driveway or garden paths or a timber stain to a deck or pool surround then pressure cleaning is a must to ensure the correct binding and adhesion.

Pressure cleaning is such a simple solution, it's a wonder why people don't use this technique more often. You can even get fences, verandahs, patios, driveway, concrete and pavers cleaned by this method. Keep reading for specific benefits in calling professionals to handle such a task.

Our Pressure cleaning system makes your stairs revitalised and fresh. Cutting through years of grime and mould/algae built up in the porous surface of bricking, tiles and/or concrete or grout. This will reduce safety hazards and may reduce compensation payouts should someone slip on your stairs when entering your property.
